Rewilding Training Tourism

Rewilding Training Tourism is a training programme focused on developing and upskilling the guiding and hospitality segment of Europe's nature tourism sector. Set up by Rewilding Europe, it aims to professionalise and scale up nature-based tourism in Europe. The Rewilding Training Tourism programme comprises three separate stages, with each of these including an assessment and a "Rewilding certificate" for participants. It is designed for guides, hospitality and tourism entrepreneurs, and other local partners in rewilding areas. Providing comprehensive rewilding and tourism training, it incorporates Rewilding Europe's best practices.

Rewilding Training Tourism Stages 2021/2022

STAGE 1 ONLINE TRAINING AND SELECTION

A series of five webinar training presentations for all candidates, including an introduction to nature-based tourism, rewilding, hospitality, engaging nature and local partnerships across diverse landscapes, and nature-based economies.

STAGE 2 GUIDING AND TOURISM IN-FIELD TRAINING

A five day in-field training programme for a maximum of 8 guides, followed by theoretical submissions and principles for grading. Bringing guides together to learn and train in different environments across rewilding areas.

STAGE 3 HIGH-TOUCH SERVICE AND FURTHER TRAINING FOR HIGHLY QUALIFIED GUIDES

Learn the art of hospitality in guiding, and dealing with international guests. Specialise in different areas of guiding: rewilding, birding, photography, tracking, area expertise, and more.
