

Communications Internship at Rewilding Europe

Are you looking to take your already strong communications skills to the next level? Rewilding Europe is seeking an enthusiastic and talented intern to join our communications team, with the coming months full of events and important happenings. The position will provide you with a broad range of communications experience and help you to develop your professional skills and competencies.

Impactful communications

Rewilding Europe wants to make Europe a wilder place, with more space for wild nature, wildlife, natural processes and nature-based economies, benefiting both wild nature and people. Impactful marketing and communications are critical to delivering results and achieving our goals. As an intern you will support Rewilding Europe in its day-to-day communications efforts, focusing particularly on two upcoming events: the launch of the Young Rewilders Community, and the 10-year anniversary of Rewilding Europe.

Responsibilities

The Young Rewilders Community

In its mission to make Europe a wilder place, Rewilding Europe wants to inspire the next generation of European conservationists to help restore the natural world. Engaging and empowering young people is vital to the growth of rewilding. This is why Rewilding Europe is starting up the new Young Rewilders Community. As an intern you will support this group of enthusiastic and ambitious young volunteers with their communications and official launch in June.

More specifically:

- Help build their profile (branding, social media) and organise their official launch
- Engage with the members of the Young Rewilders Community on all channels
- Regular contact with the core team of the community that are setting up this new initiative
- Developing creative ideas and opportunities that contribute to the growth of the Young Rewilders Community and awareness of the brand
- Guidance and advice on further developing their communications strategy and social media campaigns

Support the Central Communications Team

As an intern we will offer you the opportunity to be a fully integrated part of our small yet highly experienced Communications team. You will support the team in daily operations, including:

- Content creation for Rewilding Europe's communication channels
- Organising events celebrating our 10-year anniversary
- Facilitating rewilding teams in their communications by improving our photo database and other supporting tools

You will be working from home, in close contact with the Central Communications Team of Rewilding Europe.

What we are offering you:

- A challenging and dynamic internship (4-6 months) in an international organisation that is leading rewilding across Europe.
- 400 euros per month for a full-time internship
- Opportunity to be part of a highly motivated and experienced communications team.
- Space to shape your own training. It is our goal to provide you with the best coaching opportunities, so that you make the most out of your internship. We offer guidance throughout your time at Rewilding Europe, handing you the tools to grow.
- An inspiring and creative remote working environment where you can develop your talent and skills, including gaining experience in organizing events, social media campaigns and developing creative content.
- The opportunity to make a difference and be the one putting the Young Rewilders Community on the map (and your track record).
- A professional network of passionate nature lovers, each of us wanting to make Europe a wilder place. Knowledgeable, curious, dedicated, inspiring, results-oriented, trustworthy, optimistic and inviting.

What we are looking for:

- You are a student, just graduated or young professional in the area of marketing and/or communications, searching for an inspiring and challenging place to gain experience in the communications field.
- You are a European Citizen or have a valid residence permit for the purpose of study in the Netherlands.
- You have good writing skills and a high level of written and spoken English.
- You have strong organizational skills and the ability to take initiative.
- You are ambitious, self-sufficient and able to work in a dynamic environment and international team.
- You are active on several social media channels, including at least Facebook & Instagram.
- You are directly available for at least 4 months and for at least 20 hours a week.
- You are able to work remotely, from your own laptop.
- You love rewilding!

Bonus:

- Experience in WordPress and Mailchimp to provide support in web content management and digital mailings
- Experience with inter-cultural communication
- Evidence of creative, design or promotion skills
- Good writing skills in other languages besides English

How to apply

Are you passionate about reaching out to people and spreading the message about rewilding? This internship will provide you with the opportunity to gain valuable work experience and learn more about how impactful communications are making a difference in Rewilding Europe's mission.

Those interested in applying should send a motivational letter, CV (in English) and link to their social media channels to info@rewildingeuropa.com before April 1, 2021.
